SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE OPENS

The Initial Enrollment Established a Record for Canada and, perhaps, the U. S. as well.

EIGHTY-THREE PUPILS REGISTERED

With an initial enrollment of 83 students the Claresholm School of Agriculture has started on its career. Tuesday was the opening day and the principal and his assistants were busy the entire day accepting registrations and assigning the courses and making ready for the beginning of the lectures on Wednesday. It was most gratifying to see the response which has been made by the parents and the youth of the south to the opportunity which has been brought to them by the provincial government and the principal, Mr. Stephen, to whom the success must be largely attributed, is making an attempt to conceal his gratification. Fifty-three young men and boys desire to be instructed in better husbandry methods for the future. The suit of the education which is thus commenced must of a necessity which completed have a most beneficial effect on the farming of the district. Thirty ladies and girls desire to be taught to study how to make the best use of the resources at hand and to better the living conditions in the home. Thus the three great necessities of agricultural life will in time be brought about, better farming, better business, better living. When the two years' course at this school is completed, the desire should have been given birth and been fostered. It goes on in the study of practical agriculture and home economics at the college which shall have been arranged for by that time and where more advanced education but still along the same lines shall be given. Everything has been provided to supplement the instruction which the teachers are prepared to give and the surroundings are eminently suited to impress the teaching. The demonstration farm is there, where actual work is being worked out, is an object lesson. Space is there for experimental and demonstration plots. The instructors have had experience which enables them to understand and sympathize with the pupils in the individual problems of their home life and future expectations. The next few months should be most profitable to the students as they are taking advantage of the opportunity afforded in the opening of the school.

The Importance of a Test Record

There is no man on earth that depends so much on guessing as the farmer. He can't bear to be methodical, to test out facts, to know positively what his cows are doing. He has to much more confidence in guessing at it. What a slant of derision would go up from these same farmers at a horse race if they were refused the actual time made by the winner and were told to "guess at it." Yet those same farmers can't bear to institute a steady record of the milk yield of their cows. They feel so much better guessing at it. Such ideas are unbusinesslike and would never be followed were the men well trained in business principles and methods. (Hoard's Dairy.)

New Difficulties to Face

A special meeting of the council was held on Monday evening. Mayor Holmes and Councillors Ryan, Huston, Brown, Booth and James were present. The council gave permission to the representatives of the skating rink, Messrs. Munro and Eric Moffatt, to erect the rink on the old site. The water rates to the two rinks are to be the same as last year. The town foreman was given permission to exchange the town team for a team of younger horses. The mayor has informed the council that his business would necessitate his absence from town for the remainder of the term. Councillor Ryan has appointed deputy mayor. A letter was received from the Dominion Bank complaining that the town was not reducing its overdraft quickly enough. In view of the fact that the town has already this year reduced its indebtedness to the bank from $13,500 to $7,500, in spite of hard times, the council could not see where the cause of dissatisfaction could lie. Another communication was read from the department of the interior, which has an inspector here lately to examine into the conditions of the water system. Evidently his report was not at all favorable. As the license has not as yet been granted by the department for the taking of water from the creek, the department wants things to be put into shape at an early date. The secretary was instructed to reply stating that the effort which the town is making to get the pipeline matter settled and to put the system in proper condition.

Doubly Safe-Guarded

The Farmers Co-operative Elevator has come in for some discussion as well, in the minds of the whole town, in the 1914 estimates. It was suggested by the opposition that the Co. contained no restrictive clauses which would prevent shareholders in the Elevator Company from transferring their interests to capitalist grain companies, and thus defeating the objects of the Act under which the Co-operative Elevator Company was formed. It was shown by President Sifton, Hon. Chas. Stuart, and Hon. A. G. Mackay, that the Act was not possible for such a transfer of shares to take place. The whole of the members would have to agree to such a transfer, and this would then have to be submitted to the government for their approval. There is a double security in the Farmers Co-operative Elevator Company, the shareholders farmers themselves, and the government. The registration of $30,000 for farmers' elevators in the 1914 estimates was thus passed.

Return of Hallowells

The Hallowell Concert Company, made-up of ten real musical artists, which delighted such a large audience last March 1st here, are returning for the evening of Tuesday, November 19th. They are again under the auspices of the local Claresholm Lodge, Knights of Pythias. The reputation which this talented company made for itself is such that they do not need an introduction. Tickets will be for sale by members of the local lodge and the price is to secure your seats early.

Change of Managers

There is to be a change of managers for the Crown Lumber Co., branch yard here at the end of the present month. J. H. Heddle is leaving to assume a position at the local office of the company at Calgary. W. C. Peck, who has been in Retlaw since spring comes to Claresholm as manager of his branch.

An Offer to New Subscribers

The Review will be sent from now until Dec. 31st, 1914, to new subscribers for $1.50, the price of one year's subscription. Fourteen months for the price of twelve.

SOME INTERESTING COMPARISONS

This Youngest of the Provinces Sets the Pace in Economy of Administration, in Encouragement of Agricultural Education and Elementary School Education and Gives Special Attention to the Roads and Bridges of the Province.

The following comparisons show the enviable position which the provincial government holds in economy of administration and in the distribution of its expenditures. To the financial record of the six years may be added: a telephone monopoly, a railway monopoly, a street car monopoly, a power monopoly, very rich. Some comparisons are not old.

EXPENSES OF ADMINISTRATION (1907-1913)
Total Funds	Cost of Administration
Manitoba	$26,000,000	5.02 per cent

The concert given by the Excalibur Mission Circle at the Methodist Church last Monday evening was thoroughly enjoyed by the fair-sized audience.

Gus Malchow has moved to town from his farm east of Stavely and has taken a house in the south end near the Agricultural School. This move was made with a view to giving his children the advantage of the courses of instruction at the School of Agriculture.

The funeral took place on Wednesday at Calgary of the wife of Isadore Jansen, who at one time was in the clothing business here. The family has been living in Calgary. The friends of Mr. Jansen here extend their sympathy to him in his sad bereavement.

N. Holmes left for Trochu on Tuesday where it is said he has purchased a business to which he will give his attention personally. The council at its session on Monday evening, appointed A. C. Rioux, deputy mayor during the absence of Mr. Holmes.

It is about time that the ratepayers were beginning to think of the action of the next council board. By putting off the consideration of this most important matter until the election is very close, hasty and ill-considered action usually results. Think the matter over and discuss it with your friends.

It is with regret that the many friends of Mr. Hotchkiss in this town learned of his serious illness at his home in Edmonton. A combination of asthma and heart trouble caused his collapse. A message from Edmonton on Wednesday, however, announced that his condition was considerably improved.

WANTED—A girl or boy to learn the printing business under a very capable printer of wide experience. Wages are generally better in the printing business than in most other trades. A bright girl can learn the compositor's end of the business very readily and can soon command very good wages. Apply, Review Office.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. held a very unique parlor meeting, a "Hallowe'en At Home" at the home of Mrs. Geo. H. Brown last Thursday evening. Hallowe'en games were played and the evening was very enjoyable to the lady members of the Union and their husbands. The decorated and returning same to G. H. Kite, Claresholm, Alta. 36-8.

Claresholm Farmer's Win At Oklahoma

Consistent and Progressive Career of Mr. Taitinger

REFLECTED GLORY FOR CLARESHOLM DISTRICT

Among the progressive farmers of this district, there is none who has done so much to bring this town and district to the attention of the world as Nick Taitinger. Since 1911 he has let a single opportunity escape him to show what can be done in this district in the production of the finest samples of grain. He has at his own expense sent his exhibits far and wide and in his successes this town and district have shared. Mr. Taitinger was born in France, in the Department of Meuse, and as his father valued education as a factor in successful farming, he was sent to the College of Verdun where he remained until within three months of attaining the degree of Bachelor of Science. But the call of America and a boy's natural craving for travel, led him, at the age of sixteen, to come to America. He eventually reached Poulton, Ore., where he learned the western farming methods. He remained in that vicinity from 1889 to 1904. Before leaving Poulton he married and in the latter year came to Claresholm where he settled on his present farm. His family consists of his wife and five children, and so thoroughly has he learned the advantage of scientific methods in farming that his son has just begun the course at the Claresholm School of Agriculture which opened its doors on Tuesday.

In 1911, Mr. Taitinger won the Winnipeg Free Press silver cup for the best five bushels of winter wheat. The same year at the Dry Farming Congress, which was held at Spokane that year, he won the third premium for red fife wheat. In 1912, he signed himself and his district by winning the championship for barley at the Dry Farming Congress exhibition at Leithbridge. This year he has continued the good work by winning at Calgary in an average contest, by securing the gold medal and a cash prize of $250 at the Western Canada Land and Apple Show held at Winnipeg a few weeks ago, and now from Oklahoma, word has come that he has won, in competition with the world, the first prize for barley, at the Dry Farming Congress at Tulsa. This prize is a gasoline engine valued at $250. It also entitles him to exhibit an entry of Marquis wheat and there is no doubt his entry must have been well up among the best samples shown. The sweepstakes, however, did not fall to his lot this time, it going to Paul Gerlach, of Allan, Sask. Mr. Taitinger is an ardent advocate of "mixed farming." He believes in summer fallowing. In the dry year of 1910, while he did not have a good crop, those who did not plow deep and summerfallow, had nothing. This year's summer-fallow ground yielded 44 bushels to the acre while his spring plowing yielded only 22. He believes that fallures are generally caused by too much land. A smaller holding, better tilled, with more of the grain grown fed to stock and marketed "on the hoof," according to Mr. Taitinger, is more remunerative than large holdings, imperfectly farmed, devoted exclusively to the raising of wheat for market. And every observant farmer in this district says Amen.

Tuning Expert Coming

L. G. Walton, piano tuner for the Mason & Birch Limited, of Calgary, will be in Claresholm for a few days next week. He will arrive on Tuesday, Nov. 4th and he will make the Queen's Hotel his headquarters while here. Mr. Walton has had seven years factory experience and has been for twelve years connected with some of the best piano firms in the country. As the social facilities are just commencing, if the piano needs tuning here is the opportunity.

To Have Skating Rink

The meeting of the skating enthusiasts on Friday evening was a success. It was decided to have a rink as last year and the shares were fully subscribed almost before the meeting was over. Permission was obtained from the council to place the rink on the old site.

A. & G. W. Money Paid Over

On Saturday, upon the order of the Chief Justice the banks turned the A. & G. W. money over to the province.

Claims a Grievance Against New Company

W. C. Briggs, of Macleod, is threatening suit, according to the Macleod Spectator, against the Alberta Farmers' Co-operative Elevator Co., claiming a year's salary as manager of an elevator of the system. His claim is that he was engaged for a year that he was ordered to Claresholm, that he made all preparations for removal from Macleod, but that upon calling Mr. From, of Calgary, by phone, he was curtly dismissed without explanation. He claims that before closing with the Farmers' Elevator Co., he had many other offers which he turned down in favor of the Co-operative Co. offer. He says he will make a vigorous fight for his rights.

New Rural Municipality

By a vote of 31 to 17, the electors in townships 11, 12 and 13 in ranges 22, 23 and 24 decided to form themselves into a rural municipality to be known as Little Bow. Election of councillors will be held in December, the councillors being selected by subdivisions.

BOWSER, STUDENT

Buys a Century Plant and Prepares to Study It.

HE SITS UP TILL MIDNIGHT.

4th Bed Assured That He Would Hear Means, and Then the Shrub Would Spring into Bloom—Made Notes as Wishing Her Dear Near.

By M. QUAD.
Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.

AFTER dinner the other evening Mr. Bowser took a little walk, and when he returned he had a flowerpot and a plant in his arms. He carried it through the house with great care and set it carefully down in the back yard, and when he returned Mr. Bowser said: "What was your object in buying it?"

"You know what it is, don't you?" "It's what they call a century plant. The flower peddler has been here with them fifty different times this summer."

"Not with one like this, my dear. You know what a century plant is, up, down, a hundred years are up, don't you?"

"It is said it blossoms, but I never saw one who had witnessed it. It's one of the foolish old legends."

"Is it? Well, it will be for me to convince you to the contrary."

At midnight tonight that plant will be 100 years old, and will blossom. That's the reason I bought it."

"Do you mean to say that some one has kept it on it for a hundred years and can tell right to the hour when it is to blossom?" asked Mr. Bowser.

"Means Preposterous."

"To the very hour. As time strikes midnight this plant will burst into bloom. I am going to take notes of the budding and shall write an article that the world will read with interest. It is now over fifty years since the last century plant blossomed, and unfortunately there was no one there to take notes. It is said that when the plant is about to blossom there is a low humming in the air. Then it gives a shriek and a shiver, and next moment it bursts into full bloom. In other words, it throws off the shackles of a hundred years."

"I don't believe any such nonsense. Where did you get it?"

"Why—why, a gentleman down the street who knows my tastes for scientific research."

"You mean a gentleman who knows what a soil mark you are?"

"Yes, because, as you drop that strain, said Mr. Bowser as he settled back. "I think I run this house. If I want to buy a century plant and set it in the back yard I don't know if you have anything to say about it. I am devoted to scientific research, and you don't care a snap whether the world progresses or not. That's the difference between us."

"But you are being taken in and that for all the time," she protested.

"That's right then. I have never been taken in and deceived in my whole life. There isn't a man living sharp enough to cheat me."

Refused to Share Honors.

Mrs. Bowser was so stunned that she didn't say a word, and he continued:

"Every time I have a chance to rise in the world you go and ruin it. I don't want to pull me down. You are doing it in this instance. The world has offered honors to the person who will solve the mystery of the century plant. I am about to solve it, and what is your attitude toward me?"

"I am quite sure there was a peddler along these roads today with that very old plant," she replied.

"And will reap a million dollars' worth of glory. What is the matter? I have no idea. I told it. When I am interested tomorrow I shall carry the impression that I am a widower and shall ask you to keep out of sight. I think it is all that need be said—I think so. You may set down on your knees to me tomorrow and render the most abject apology, but as to whether I shall forgive or not is a different thing."

At 9:50 o'clock Mr. Bowser retired to his bed for the night. The plant was placed on the head of a barrel and his taken out for him. He persisted in using a notebook and pen, and with his straw hat, dressing gown and slippers he looked the real scientist out for information to the whole world. He didn't expect anything to take place until close to midnight, but he wanted to have time to go over certain points in his mind.

Cats Observe the Vigil.

Within the next hour forty different cats walked the fence and looked down on that hundred-year-old plant and the man guarding it, but, notwithstanding the fact that they were so many lookers-on, they were not a bit without throwing a single jump of fear. Even the stars and the moon stood contented to make the research as unqualified success.

At 11 o'clock Mr. Bowser began taking notes. He gave the plant a close scrutiny and then wrote:

"In one short hour the mystery will be solved."

"I cannot believe that the man who sold me this plant is a liar, and I am almost convinced that he is. I beat him down from $150 to $100."

"Mrs. Bowser, in her eye and jealousy, may have misled the cook to call out here and scold the plant, but I see no signs of it."

"Tomorrow my name will be flying over the wires to the uttermost parts of the earth. A golden opportunity came once to every man, and this is mine."

"It is now 11:50."

"I am very calm. I wonder if Dr. Cook was as calm as this when he discovered the birth pangs."

No Faking Permitted.

"There will be no faking about this. If the king of Sweden invites me to luncheon he will be satisfied that there is no fake about my discovery."

"A moment ago I thought I heard a humming in the air—a soft and gentle humming, like a child falling to sleep. That was what the man said I was to look for first."

"Think of it—plant a hundred years old. If it could speak what would it say?"

"It is now a quarter to 12. Do I hear moans and sighs? I do not. I try to be very, very calm, and yet I think I tremble. I wonder if I should feel this way when I discovered the child."

"Ten minutes to 12. I find my heart palpitating. I want to feel the De Soto that was told that the Mississippi river was around the corner."

"These sighs and moans I hear cannot possibly come from cats."

"A century ago, when this plant sprang from the soil, we had hardly been recognized as a nation. There wasn't a cook in the United States who knew enough to fry oysters. The forty-first cent. corner, marked down from a dollar, was a thing never dreamed of by the most sanguine. A few hundred years—and—"

"Fifty minutes to the event of a century."

Thought of Possible Fraud.

"The thought that the man who sold me the plant had clear down to his boots fishes ever me, but I repudiate it with scorn."

"There are moans!"

"There are sighs."

"There are whistles all around me! The century plant is born! It is blue!"

"It is something else. Three shades of green entered by the alley one and stole across the grass and grabbed the flower. He was the man in the black and red of his hat, green slippers and watch, and as the shadows rejected one of them came in and set the plant, to be found in the alley next morning."

Mrs. Bowser, who had witnessed all from a back window, hastened down and called Mr. Bowser to get on his feet and get the grass out of his hair and ears and mouth. As soon as he could speak he shouted:

"Monarch. Fly!"

"Hush," she whispered. "You are set a hundred years old, but you have been into knots, and now come in and go to bed!"

They Had No Warning.

Two young employees of a hotel in Philadelphia, who are supposed to be markedly employed in the rear of the establishment, while the boss looks after things in the front, were recently startled by the appearance of a old man" while they were engaged in a game of checkers.

"The proprietor was justly indignant. 'How is it?' he demanded, 'that I have ever seen you fellows at this hour? I come out here!'"

"I knew," he countered one of the youngsters, "on account of those rubber boots you insist on wearing!"

Make the Speculators Pay

Sad but Too True

Edmonton, Alta., Oct. 27.—Hon.

Arthur L. Sifton, premier and acting treasurer of Alberta, announced before starting next after the provincial legislature was prorogued the night of October 25th, that the taxation of the unearned increment on land values, would not put a hardship on any one. It is supposed to raise at least $200,000 a year that means in 1914, and he said, this will come chiefly from the land speculators. Farmers, owning 640 acres or less will not be assessed until the land itself, without improvements brings more than 650 acres. All other lands, including those of which 10 per cent has not been under cultivation by the vendor for 12 months prior to the transfer will pay a tax on the total selling price above $16 an acre. This also applies to farms in excess of 640 acres. The tax on city property is 1 per cent of the increased value.

There are events occurring in every community, which if reported in the paper, would create a commotion little dreamed of. What found what not to report often perplexes the editor. He is often unjustly accused of cowardice and favoritism, when the time he is looking toward the reputation of the town, where his light is almost constantly flicking between two fires, and whichever way

he decides he is sure to be unjustly treated. This is one of the plagues of the newspaper business.—Ex.

By Petition Instead of Election

By a recent change in the Rural Municipality Act, in future local improvement districts may become rural municipalities on petition of the ratepayers, by getting away with the expense of an election.

Elizabeth's Pride

A Labor Day Story

By CLARISA MACKIE

Elizabeth heard the motorcar crunch on the drive, but she would not put the curtains to see if Andrew Gaylord was back accompanied by her brother John from the ball game. The color left her cheeks as she listened with bated breath for the sound of their voices as the car slowed down. The motor throbbed loudly for a moment and then swung on around to the garage and she heard her brother's step in the hall and the sound of his feet twice, but there was no other.

Elizabeth felt the color rushing back to her cheeks as she doctored the tire and she went over her book to appear absorbed when the door opened and she saw her brother and sister-in-law and she went to the door.

"What was the score, Tom?" asked Elizabeth as she carefully mentioned the score and then she asked him to go to the kitchen and make her a sandwich.

THE OIL CITY.

Don't forget to leave your overcoat. A careful observation of the streets of the city will show you the acceleration of the transportation of the petroleum.

The little town of Neenah, which has been the scene of a labor trouble since the strike of the oil workers, is now a quiet town. The streets are narrow, and the houses are small. The town is situated on the shore of the Great Lakes, and the water is very clean.

The population is sixteenth of a century south of the North of England, and the houses are small. The town is situated on the shore of the Great Lakes, and the water is very clean.

The Hudson Bay Co. worked the mines with Indian labor for the most part. The mines were worked by the Hudson Bay Co. in the old days, and their old, round, white-washed houses still stand on Front Street, overlooking the lake.

An English company purchased the mines and brought out a large body of English miners from Nottingham and Durham.

Some of these workings run far out into the Pacific, and the miners have to go to a great depth, but they are paid very well for their work. The town is situated on the shore of the Great Lakes, and the water is very clean.

Most of the mines in the town of Neenah are owned and controlled by a large San Francisco corporation. The Western Fuel Company, which is a subsidiary of the American Fuel and Iron Company, is the owner of the mines.

Hands Across the Sea

Not a volume of The Youth's Companion is published that does not contain a number of contributions by British contributors—Mr. Gladstone, the Duchess of Sutherland, Rudyard Kipling, Lord Tennyson have in years past written for this great family paper.

During 1914 the Duke of Argyll, formerly Governor-General of Canada, will have something to say about "The Scot"—his character and characteristics. Lord Balfour will tell of the "Big Houses of Ireland," Sir Ernest Shackleton will describe the qualities which lead to success in an explorer. Sir William Murray, the great chemist, will write upon "Waste and How to Reuse It"; Sir John Murray will tell about "The Deepest Parts of the Sea"; Dr. C. W. Salsbery, eminent English physician, will describe "The Beauty That Endures."

This sells very little of what The Companion will bring its readers in 1914. As it is to-day, The Companion is as entertaining as you may remember it. But it is larger now, with special Family Pages, Boys' Pages, Girls' Pages. There are fifty-two in a year, not twelve.

If you do not know The Companion as it is to-day, let us send you sample copies containing chapters from Frank Little Pollock's great Canadian serial, "The Timber Tree" sure with the Announcement for 1914.

Every new subscriber for 1914 in Canada will receive free all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1913—from the time of subscription until January, 1915—at $2.25. The Youth's Companion, 144 Berkeley St., Boston, Mass. New Subscriptions Received at this office.

Moose Jaw Praises Hallowell's

The Moose Jaw Times of Wednesday speaks highly of the Hallowell Casket Co., which had appeared in St. Andrew's Church the night before. This is a company made up of the most talented artists which are touring. The music lover, and there are many in this town, who miss bearing this company next Tuesday night, will miss an opportunity which seldom presents itself in a smaller town. The track for an excited last week. Last night the band was looking rather ragged. Get your suits to-day or you will miss it.

The Business Of Farming

—like the business of Manufacturing—should be done in a practical business way. Proceeds should be put in a bank. Payments should be made by Cheque. A certain percentage of the profits should be put in a Savings Account as an emergency fund. The man who has a cash surplus in a bank is protected against bad seasons and hard times.

Queen Quality

is what mother calls Barber's Bread. It's like this, you know the quality of strawberries vary, some are rich, sweet and delicious, others sour coarse and watery. Well mother says "Barber's Bread" is just so much nicer than other breads, just so much more enjoyable, just try one loaf and then you will see the difference. Mother says it's because Mister Barber always uses the Best Wheat Flour and has a way of mixing it and Baking it that other people haven't got hold of. I suppose you know it does not cost any more than other Baker's Bread.
